Quite often much of truth still

Prof. Beeswax P. McGinnis, Imperial Potator of the Year Without a Summer, was the victim of a curious accident yesterday afternoon at his igloo. While thawing out a frozen pipe in his basement he lost control of his acetylene torch and burned one boot off before he could extinguish it.

The Weather Man has had his say—
His lesson please remember:
The straw you couldn't sell in May Go big in mid September.

President Coolidge finds it impossible even to keep cool with himself.

Chief Justice Taft is an optimist at 70, and why not? When St. Peter hands him a golden harp some day it'll be on a silver platter.

Washington man breaks three fins when he falls into the Potomac River. Hard luck!

Speaking of Mr. Taft, reciprocity was still the unfulfilled promise of McKinley's Buffalo speech when he became President, and he called his first extra session to put that policy into law. In offering to us an idea of our own invention France gives another example of that subtle Gallic humor, of which the Anglo-Saxons are so unappreciative.

"Baby Bye, here's a fly,

Let us watch him, you and I."

Prof. Aldrich, who has been counting flies on a 9,000-mile trip, not including the butcher shops visited,
spent 35,000 different kinds and estimates there are 150,000 varieties still unknown, and let us hope they will remain so.

My labors leave me well repaid.

I've bottles and boxes of bugs galore,

But still I am looking around for more."

With Pennsylvania lining up for as exclusively a New York affair as the average world series.

If Southern Democrats don't like the way President Coolidge is running this country why don't they nominate Gov. Smith?

Senator Borah advocates an increased tariff on onions. This is where he comes out strong.

If the soldiers of both countries had been like the politicians who took charge of things after the armistice Germany would have won the war.

The new French tariff is so high as to lead to the suspicion that the cabinet employed a ruse de la Paix dressemaker to write it.

Canada is elected to the council of the League of Nations, and thus if the United States were silly enough to have joined we'd now have one vote to Great Britain's two. How vigorously this was denied at the time we didn't fall for the bunk.

Dempsey is indulging in very light work as the date of the desecration of Soldiers' Field draws nigh—just keeping in good enough condition to lug off his share of the loot.

Senator George Moses favors a presidential candidate who can be assured of winning again in 1932—and will need a running mate from some Eastern State like, I instance, New Hampshire.

With young T. R. sounding the keynote in New York an interesting return to politics is indicated. The man who was defeated by Smith only by the usual Tammany trades may yet be Governor and points South.

GOV. SMITH GAINING IN KEYSTONE STATE, GUFFEE DECLARIES

PREDICTS NOMINATION BY THE THIRD BALLOT

Lack of Suitable Opponent to Pit Against Him Is Aiding New Yorker.

By ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
Special to The Washington Post.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 15.—Pennsylvania Democrats, according to surface indications, are going to be overwhelmingly for Al Smith for President in the Democratic national convention next year. This is what Democratic leaders are saying in Philadelphia, Harrisburg and Pittsburgh. Democratic National Committeeman Joseph F. Guffey has received letters from local leaders in 80 per cent of the counties which indicate that Smith will have a large majority of the Pennsylvania delegation of 76.

"There will be at least 60 Pennsylvania delegates for Smith, maybe more," said Mr. Guffey. "There has been no boom for Smith, no drive for delegates for him. The governor won't permit it. The sentiment for his nomination has not been artificially stimulated. But there is no gainsaying the fact that he is the popular choice of the Democrats of this State for the nomination. And what is true of this State seems to be true of a good many other States. I look for his nomination by the third ballot."

In the 1924 convention the largest number of votes given Smith by Pennsylvania on any ballot was 39%. McAdoo had 25%, with the remainder scattering. That Smith should be stronger now is not surprising. The McAdoo faction has gone to pieces; Smith is the outstanding figure in the party and the anti-Smith Democrats have no candidate to pit against him.

Opposed by McCormick.

Vance McCormick, of Harrisburg, dry Democrat and former McAdoo leader, inveighs in his newspaper against the nomination of a "nullificationist," referring apparently to Smith, though he does not name him. He says Democrats must realize that "no man who stands on a nullification platform can hope to win." But Mr. McCormick proposes no alternative to Smith for the nomination.

French Reject U.S. Proposals; Nations Verge on Tariff War

Downtown Temperature, Soaring to 102, 5 Degrees Higher Than Observatory Reading, Causes Coolidge to Retire to Cool Room Until Relief Sets In.

With the country generally sweltering under a late season hot wave, Washington yesterday experienced its hottest day of the year, the mercury climbing to 97 degrees. Despite the intense heat, which was registered at 102 at the Weather Bureau kiosk on Pennsylvania avenue, there were no prostrations or deaths reported.

As Washington went, so went the country, many of the cities of the East reporting abnormally high temperature for this time of the year and some of them recording higher temperatures than at any time previously this summer.

Baltimore broke all heat records for that city when the temperature climbed to 98 degrees. New York sweltered along with the smaller cities. The hottest city in the country, however, was Birmingham, Ala., which recorded a temperature of 102 degrees.

The Capital took its taste of torrid weather with ill grace yesterday, the day when, according to the dictatorship of style, the summer season closes and man dons his winter apparel. Any one who followed the dictate yesterday was in for a little heavy suffering.

The record-breaking heat caused acute discomfort to President Coolidge, just back from his cool retreat in the Black Hills. When the temperature was at its peak in the afternoon the President re-

ACCUSED NURSE PLEADS NOT GUILTY OF MURDER

Miss Atkinson Is Formally Charged With the Death of Pastor's Daughter.

"LOOKS BAD," SHE ADMITS

Friction between the Juvenile Court and the United States district attorney's office over jurisdiction in cases of juveniles charged with felonies moved into a new phase yesterday when Judge Katherine Sellers issued a rule against Assistant Attorney Leo Rover, George A. Stirling, superintendent of the National Training School, and Stephen Callahan, deputy marshal, for contempt of court.

"It looks very, very bad for me," commented the slight, dark girl, with a wry smile, when a deputy sheriff today informed her she had been charged with the murder of the girl who died suddenly last week.

Mary Jane's death followed within less than two weeks of that of her mother, who was believed to have succumbed to a stroke of paralysis. County Attorney Dan Mitchell, of Garfield County, said tonight he was still undecided whether he would investigate the cause of Mrs. Bailey's death. The nurse was returned to jail without bond following her arraignment.

Mitchell decided to file charges against the nurse after he had received an oral report from Dr. W. H. Bailey, Oklahoma City pathologist, indicating the presence of poison in the viscera of Mary Jane, and of a potent narcotic in a hypodermic syringe found near the hospital room in which the girl died. The poison discovered by the chemist was of the same kind as that declared to have been in the nurse's possession while she was a guest in the minister's home, Mitchell said.

The pathologist asserted the narcotic also could have been administered in lethal doses from the syringe.

Miss Atkinson, who followed the Bailey family here from Gainesville, Tex., in June, was a guest in the home until after Mrs. Bailey's death, when she accepted the position of a nurse and left for a few days. She immediately reestablished herself in the home when Mr. Bailey left for Trinidad, Colo., to place one of his small, motherless daughters in the home of a relative. In his absence, four of the children became violently ill. Mary Jane dying.

CHIANG, INCOGNITO, ON WAY TO AMERICA

Colombo, Ceylon, Sept. 15 (A.P.)—Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, former commander in chief of the Nationalist forces in China, has left Shanghai and is traveling incognito as a third-class passenger on the French liner Chenonceau en route to the United States, say the Chinese newspapers here.

Recent dispatches from China have suggested the possibility that Chiang Kai-Shek would visit the United States, but his exact whereabouts have been somewhat of a mystery. A dispatch to London from Shanghai on September 12 said that he had returned to Shanghai in response to a demand by his followers, but this could not be confirmed, and was denied in Shanghai Wednesday.

J. L. Payne, also an aviation pilot, who was a passenger in the plane, managed to extricate himself from the wreckage and was swimming toward shore when he was picked up by rescue boats.

Kruger was flying at a height of about 500 feet when his plane went into a tail spin and tumbled into the waters of the bay. Kruger was entangled in the wreckage and held under the water, it being twenty minutes later before rescue parties were able to free his body.

Soon after the accident two Navy hydroplanes and several speed boats reached the scene, but, not being equipped for rescue work, were unable to aid Kruger. Had there been a pair of pliers on any of the planes or rescue boats, Kruger could have been saved, in the opinion of Navy officers.

U.S. AIR COMMITTEE REFUSES FLIGHT BAN ON OVEROCEAN HOPS

Reciprocal Treaty, Such as Paris Demands, Is Barred by Law.

THREAT HINT IS SEEN IN REPLY OF FRANCE

High Duties Stand; Easement Only if America Agrees to French Offer.

(Associated Press)

Rejection by France of American proposals for a most-favored-nation commercial treaty to correct French tariff discriminations against American goods brought the two governments to the verge of an open clash yesterday in land planes.

The committee, composed of the three air secretaries of the War, Navy and Commerce Departments, rendered its decision after a meeting at the Navy Department.

While the French communication declining the offer was not made public, it was said authoritatively at the State Department that there will be little delay in formulating the American answer, as the tariff act forbids the negotiation of treaties as to tariffs on any basis but that of equal treatment for all nations.

The committee expressed profound regret over these air tragedies, but saw no reason why such pioneering ventures, if undertaken by personnel competent to judge the risks involved and with carefully tested equipment of the highest type, should be prohibited absolutely by law.

Rigid Tests Needed.

Flights that are not planned in this manner should be discouraged, members of the committee agreed.

They were unanimous in the statement that "public opinion will itself act to that end and will impose a restriction on the offering of any direct incentive for the making of exceptionally hazardous flights without requirements of reasonable precautions."

The committee emphasized that seaplanes or flying boats were better adaptable for long overwater flights. It held that this has been demonstrated by their regular employment on many commercial routes and in a number of instances where such machines and their crews have been picked up unharmed after floating for many hours.

Casualty Hospital's ambulance was summoned, but the attending physician declared that Mr. Green had gone to the kitchen with the intention of taking medicine for a headache, and had inadvertently taken the deadly poison instead of a harmless headache preparation.

Green was alone in the apartment at the time of his death, except for 8-year-old Ruth Morris, niece of Mrs. Green. The child heard the man's body fall to the floor and rushing to the kitchen, found him prostrate. Frightened at her inability to arouse him, the girl ran to the apartment of Mr. Green's sister, Mrs. C. E. Geoghegan, in the same apartment building, and told her what had happened.

Mr. Green had been ill for more than two years and was known to have been worried because of his inability to throw off the sickness. His family declared last night that Mr. Green had gone to the kitchen with the intention of taking medicine for a headache, and had inadvertently taken the deadly poison instead of a harmless headache preparation.

In addition to his wife and his sister, Mrs. Geoghegan, Mr. Green is survived by three brothers, James B. Green, attorney, in the Evans building; Thomas A. Green, insurance man, of 1735 DeSales street northwest, and Bernard J. Green, of Baltimore, and two other sisters, Mrs. J. W. Cummings, of Chevy Chase, Md., and Mrs. W. W. McGregor, of 1350 Spring Road northwest.

Trains Kill Two Men Bearing Same Name

Special to The Washington Post.

Newburg, W. Va., Sept. 15.—Two Preston County men, of the same name but not related, were killed on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad about an hour apart in the same manner yesterday. The body of Floyd M. Wolfe, a pipefitter employed at the shops of the Baltimore & Ohio at Hardman, W. Va., was found lying along the tracks just west of Newburg. He had been struck by a freight train shortly before.

An hour later Ira T. Wolfe, a farmer, was struck by a passenger train near Terra Alta and killed. His body was taken to his home at Terra Alta.

British Train Holdup
Alarms Passengers

London, Sept. 15 (A.P.)—A man brandishing a revolver and demanding money gave the passengers on a Great Western mail train an unwelcome experience today rare in British railway annals.

When the train was between Bristol and Chippenham, the man took a revolver from his bag and ordered the six passengers in his compartment to put up their hands. When they produced only a few shillings, he said that they were no good to him and told them to put them back.

PRISONER ESCAPES FROM JURY ROOMS WHILE GUARDS CHAT

Man Held on Statutory Charge Eludes Deputy Marshal in District Court.

WAS CALLED TO TESTIFY IN CASE OF LARCENY

Passes Through Police-Infested Halls to Freedom in Group of Witnesses.

While a dozen deputy marshals and policemen stood quietly by, Arthur Leon Conrad, 19 years old, of 1220 Carrollton street southwest, charged with a statutory offense, walked calmly out of the grand jury quarters in the District Court Building yesterday morning and disappeared.

Last night police of the entire city and the complete staff of the United States marshal's office were united in combing the city in an effort to recapture Conrad. Police of the Fourth Precinct, which Conrad's home is located, took the lead in the search and spent the night searching the man's former haunts, all without avail.

Conrad had been lodged in the District Jail since his arrest. He had come in, in the meantime, a Government witness in a case of grand larceny. Yesterday the grand jury, which was to be presented to the grand jury, and Assistant United States Attorney Joseph Connolly ordered Conrad brought from his cell in the District Jail to the courthouse in order to hear his testimony.

Brought to Courthouse. Deputy United States Marshal E. D. Bolger brought Conrad to the courthouse in the police patrol and up in the elevator to the grand jury room on the top floor.

The man was taken before Detective George Weber to give his preliminary testimony at the summary trial. While the prisoner was talking with Weber, Marshal Bolger sat on a nearby bench, talking with some friends, it is said.

About the time that Detective Weber finished taking Conrad's preliminary testimony, a group of witnesses, many of them colored, were released from the grand jury room. Conrad fell in with the witnesses and walked out. Four policemen were standing by the door when the escaping prisoner passed carrying through in the rear.

Going to the elevator, the colored man rang the bell, waited for the lift to reach the floor, and entered it. The elevator operator recognized him as Deputy Marshal Bolger's prisoner and said: "Well, you out?"

"Yes," replied Conrad. "I've been cleared and am free now."

Fades From Police.

Taken to the first floor, Conrad made his way through police-infested halls to the men's room.

In the meantime Assistant District Attorney Connolly had reached the case in which Conrad was to testify. He called for the abstract of his testimony and after reading it, ordered that Conrad be sent in. The order was made because he can never be sure.

The search started. For a while it was hoped that he had gotten mixed up with other prisoners and been sent to the jail. Investigation, however, proved that this was not the case.

Deeply chagrined, the marshal's office reported to police that their prisoner had escaped, and the police immediately started on a search to locate him.

Borges was removed at Hospital of the Pan-American Union, Borges lives at 3939 Morrison street northwest.

BROOKLYN BOMBING BRINGS INDICTMENTS

Five of the Six Latin-Americans Held in Hall of Records Blast Are Accused.

New York, Sept. 15 (A.P.)—Indictments were returned today against five of the six Latin-American citizens who bombed the Brooklyn Hall of Records and County Courthouse on September 5. The indictments charge malicious placing of explosives near a building with intent to do harm.

Chicago, Sept. 15 (A.P.)—A spring-like late today started the route of September's midsummer heat wave, in which middle West millions have sweated for four days.

The shower was of short duration in Chicago's downtown loop district. A cool area was moving in from the West, however, and forecasters predicted temperatures around 70 degrees and in the normal range of Saturday.

The break in the heat wave found a total of more than a score of deaths attributed to the unprecedented rise in temperature, due, it was said, to a lack of contact between a high pressure area in the South and a low area in the North. This resulted in a stationary high pressure over the air, and the heat just kept setting records.

New York, Sept. 15 (A.P.)—All local heat records for September 15 were broken today when the mercury officially soared to 90 degrees at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The previous high temperature record for the day was established, on Sept. 15, 1918, when 88 degrees was registered. On Sept. 15, 1918, the record was reported. Humidity was only 57.

The heat was not expected to bring with it the same suffocating temperatures which took a toll of several lives in the middle West. It was moderating now and was moving eastward, the Weather Bureau said.

Atlanta, Sept. 15 (A.P.)—New altitude records were set in Dixie today by the mercury. In every Southern State the thermometer showed an upward trend for the day, in many spots exceeding previous high readings for the summer.

Birmingham, with a mark of 102, was the hottest, while Montgomery was a close second, with 100.8 at 2 p.m. This was the highest peak attained in the Alabama capital in two years, while the figure was a season's high at Birmingham.

Atlanta suffered from the warmest day of the summer with the mercury at 96.2 at 3 p.m. Yesterday was the second hottest, with a 95.3 reading.

In the Carolinas, Charlotte reported 96 degrees and Raleigh 95.

Then the sun came out, and the heat mounted throughout the day and between 3 and 4 o'clock reached a maximum of 102 degrees. W.R. & E. PLANNING EARLY ONE-MAN CAR CHANGES

W. F. Ham Tells Utility Commission Safety Steps Will Be Taken.

AFFECTS ANACOSTIA LINE

President William F. Ham of the Washington Railway & Electric Co. yesterday conferred with the Public Utility Commission to assure its members that he intends complying as soon as possible with the recent order to equip all one-man street cars on the Anacostia line with rear exits and double front doors.

John W. Childress, chairman of the commission, said after the conference that it had assured Ham that the commission meant the company only to convert its ten one-man cars at present assigned to the line to safety type cars and that the remainder of twenty-three one-man cars to be in service thereafter could be converted later, the commission to consider them separately.

No one else seemed to have that view of what had taken place, although the other conferees refused to talk for publication after Childress had acted as spokesman.

Ham said, however, that definite plans would have to wait on a meeting of the directors of his company, to be held in the near future. He said that there will be seventeen cars regularly in service on the Anacostia line within a few days. It will take a week or two weeks to obtain material to convert old type to new type cars, after which no more than one week could issue from the shops converted and ready to be placed in service. If new cars are bought, delay may not be so great.

The change in routing of the three lines on which one-man cars are operated, recently approved by the commission, will take place Sunday. Thereafter, the cars will run on the Anacostia line with a minimum of two cars.

Brookland cars will run to the white Cole and Town with the red line. Brookland cars will run to the red line.

The street car company has until September 23 to state definitely its plans for conversion of the cars to the commission for specific approval.

G. A. R. ELECTS HAWK AFTER CLEM RETIRES

Capital Man and Four Others Quit Campaign Against California Candidate.

OTHER OFFICERS NAMED

Grand Rapids, Mich., Sept. 15 (A.P.)—Elbridge L. Hawk, of Sacramento, Calif., was elected commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic by acclamation today. This is the first time that a G. A. R. commander has been elected from the Pacific Coast.

Denver, Colo., was chosen as the site of the 1928 encampment.

Hawk was elected April 15, 1921 as a private in company F, 18th Ohio, and reenlisted in September in the same regiment. Later he organized company F, 11th Ohio, and was made first lieutenant. He was promoted to captain after the first battle and was senior captain of the unit. He was discharged in 1921.

Major Gen. John C. Clem, of Washington, D. C., withdrew from the race when the nominations were made leaving the vote for commander between Hawk, John C. Reek, of Newark, N.J.; Frank Conroy, of Jersey City; Patrick Conroy, of Toledo, Ohio, and Samuel Town, of Philadelphia. After the vote both Cole and Town withdrew in favor of Comrade Hawk. It was then moved by Captain Hawk that Hawk be elected commander.

Calvin A. Baird, of Buffalo, was unopposed for senior vice commander. Walter Mahle, of Philadelphia, was elected commander in chief of the sons of union veterans organization and D. E. Boeby, San Francisco, senior vice commander in chief.

Miss Margaret Waters, Woburn, Mass., was named national president of the ladies auxiliary to the sons of veterans organization and Cora Swartz, Indianapolis, national vice president.

Maj. Gen. John C. Clem, Washington, D. C., and Hawk earlier appeared to be the outstanding candidates.

Commissioner in chief Frank A. Walsh, speaking at the first business session of the encampment, today asked that the National Tribune, publication linking itself with the Grand Army of the Republic, make an accounting for $23,000 raised for pension work.

"The National Tribune," the commander said, "spent the proceeds of the campaign that it raised to help the disabled veterans, and so far has failed to explain what has been done with the money paid to that paper, amounting to $23,000." He added that the time has come for the veterans' organization to record a clear and official relation or connection with the publication.

The commander in chief characterized a pension act of July 3, 1926, as "unjust discrimination" against more than 20,000 widows and in favor of only 25,000 widows who married before the "date of birth" of the bill.

Armitage Says He Gave Sum to Duvall in Course of Indianapolis Drive.

$12,000 WAS RETURNED LATER, HE TELLS JURY

City Executive Said He Could Not Carry Out the Plan, It Is Testified.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 15 (A.P.)—Testimony that Mayor John L. Duvall of Indianapolis bartered away places in the city administration for money and voting support in the 1926 campaign was introduced by the State in the trial here today of the mayor on a charge of violating the corrupt practices act.

William H. Armitage, a local politician and the prosecution's star witness, testified that Duvall promised him the right to name two members of the board of public works and the city engineer before the election. After a successful campaign, however, he said Duvall went back on his promise and also returned $12,000 to him. Duvall told him the campaign fund was a little short and that at various times he gave an additional $4,500 to the mayor. He said $500 of the money belonged to Freeman.

Armitage related incidents surrounding the 1926 campaign and the election that began in Pekin, Ill., and ended in Springfield, Ill. It was on that occasion, he testified, that Duvall told him he could not go through with their alleged agreement and that he would return his money soon. The defense said $12,000 was returned to him later.

DENIES IMMUNITY PROMISE.

On cross-examination Freeman was asked if he had given Duvall a written immunity compact with that of Armitage over certain alleged transactions. The defense failed to shake the testimony given by Armitage in a two-hour sitting.

Will Rogers Calls 2-Man Argument Novel for Dawes

Special to The Washington Post. Burbank, Calif., Sept. 15.—I see where Vice President Dawes refused a ringside seat free to the fight. It's a novelty for him to have a ringside seat to see a national argument just between two men. He has to watch 96 in one ring and gets paid for it, and should.

My old friend Mayor Bill Thompson of Chicago is out here with us. He is making speeches on the Mississippi flood. Knowing Bill was generally on the opposite side from the crowd, we kinder figured he would speak in favor of floods. But he didn't. He was again 'em' right from the first word.

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

Tells of Giving $14,500.

Armitage testified that prior to the 1925 election he went to Duvall's house and told him that he wanted to have two more seats to the board of public works and the city engineer, and said it would be worth $10,000.

Armitage, who is said to control a major portion of the negro vote in Indianapolis, then related that he had met Duvall in a downtown office building and given him $5,000 in bills. A week later, he says, Duvall gave him another $5,000. His home after he alleged Duvall told him the campaign fund was a little short and that at various times he gave an additional $4,500 to the mayor. He said $500 of the money belonged to Freeman.

SOUTH SEEN RIPE FOR AN EFFECTIVE REPUBLICAN PARTY

Revolt Against Job-Holder Control Is Under Way in Tennessee.

IDEA IS WELCOMED EVEN BY DEMOCRATS

State Machine Is Declared at Present Organized on Defeatist Basis.

By ARTHUR M. EVANS.

Special to The Washington Post.
Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 15.—A revolt against the old Flockeborough system in the South of handpicked delegations to the Republican national convention controlled by the hands that dish out the postmasterships and other jobs at Washington is quite vocal in these parts. Apart from the Federal job holders, who are in a paddock by themselves, some Republican leaders are charging that the Republican party is deliberately organized in Tennessee on a defeatist basis by the party bosses with a view to make it easier to sit in the conventions with a stack of vest pocket delegates. It's an echo of the fight over "illy whites" and "black and tans" that for a generation and more have given color to the sessions of the credentials committee.

It has led to the formation of the Southern States Republican League, the head of which is Charles Ulysses Gordon, of Greenville, Miss., who was Chicago's postmaster in the McKinley days. It is popularly known as a "illy white" organization and it is spreading into seventeen States of the South.

Some of the leaders of thought declare the growth of the South has made it ripe for an active Republican party, not founded on postmasters. The growth of industry, the coming of Northern people through the South, a new generation that has a new idea on politics, all these things, they say, are making the opportunity for a strong two-party system in the Southern States.

Many Democrats are found applauding the idea, their contention being that an active State Republican party, patterned on the Southern attitude toward the race problem, would give them a choice at the polls when the Democrats put up bad candidates.

Say East Controls.

As politics is played down here, although Lowden, Hoover and Dawes are away in the lead in popular sentiment, friends of all three declare nobody will know who will get the national delegation until the bosses back East who control the Federal patronage give the word.

Most of the politicians say that the vote of Tennessee's national delegates will be determined by the State organization, of which the ruling figure is Representative W. T. Taylor of Knoxville, the national committeeman.

National Chairman William M. Butler is criticized in Memphis even more strongly than he is in Iowa. Leaders in the Republican league declare that Butler has played hand in glove with politicians who have been running the show on both sides, seeking to keep it weak in order to maintain stronger hold on post offices and other jobs, regarding which for years there have been recurrent charges of butter.

They declare that in 1924 Butler kept Gen. Dawes from speaking here because he had been beaten. He would probably provoke a race riot. The defeatist idea, they argue, is so strongly entrenched that back in 1920, before Butler's time, the only way Tennessee was carried for Harding and the Republicans elected a governor half the representatives in Congress and the railroad commission, was through the instrumentalities of a separate movement working apart from the State machine.

G. O. P. Ranks Complain.

One of the loudest phases of political good will is that the country is not controlled so much by Committee man Taylor as it is by Robert R. Church, a negro alumnus of Harvard, who lives in Memphis. It is declared that Church has more power in the distribution of patronage than any other Republican in the State, and though this is disputed by some of the old-line politicians, it is declared that Taylor has to make engagements to call at the White House through Church, if he is in a hurry. Some of the local leaders protest that the Church gets recognition from the Coolidge leaders in the distribution of Federal jobs in Western Tennessee as a reward for work he does in organizing the negro vote in Illinois, Indiana and other outside States.

The Taylor group denies that Republicans voters have no voice in the State party affairs, pointing to the law under which the State commissioners are elected in district primaries.

All through this region is an antebellum White sentiment still rampant in the Republican Party, according to John W. Farley, one of the founders of the Southern Republican League.

CANADIANS HONOR TAFT ON 70TH ANNIVERSARY

Feeling Better Than for Some Time Past, He Says, Has Had Good Vacation.

CELEBRATION IN QUEBEC

Murray Bay, Quebec, Sept. 15 (A.P.)—This little village rejoiced today in celebrating the seventieth birthday of William Howard Taft, Chief Justice of the United States.

While the celebration at the Taft summer home was of a private nature, many of the French-Canadian villagers, with whom "Le Bonhomme Taft" has been popular for many years considered it their duty and privilege to extend to the Chief Justice their wishes.

In exceeding good humor and obviously in the best of health, Mr. Taft smilingly replied, "I am doing the best I can," when questioned as to his health.

Mr. Mellon's willingness to have the fact known that he personally favored him if he would accept, plus the fact that he was considered to be entirely out of the picture, left no doubt whatever that the President really intends to retire to private life after March 4, 1929, and that the business of politically-minded persons now is the selection of his successor.

Speaker George H. Moses, of New Hampshire, was quoted at length in an interview with a reporter in Washington yesterday not only as accepting the President's decision, but as coming out in favor of Herbert Hoover.

Mr. Moses declared that he was in favor of picking a candidate who could be reelected.

"Anyone," said Mr. Moses, "can be elected in 1928. To pick some one who can win with the Republican nomination this time is no task at all. But we must hope to reelect whoever is elected in 1928 and that may be a real problem. It may be that the Democrats will have lost their dispositions by that time."

This is a comparatively new thought in the problem of selecting a successor to Coolidge. Most politicians have been proceeding on the theory that the religious row in the Democratic party, and the fact that the party was also torn wide open on the wet and dry issue, both due to the sanctity of Al Smith, made it comparatively unimportant who was reelected.

Granite State Hoover.

Speaker Moses' statement in favor of Hoover is given much additional importance by the fact that the Coolidge wing of the State same is also for Hoover. Mr. Moses has several times demonstrated his own popularity in New Hampshire. He was fought bitterly for nomination to the Senate last time, but triumphantly won in the primary and in the election.

The only time he has suffered a serious setback was in 1924 when he ran for delegate to the National convention on an unorganized platform at a time when the State was tremendously for the nomination of Coolidge. He was beaten in that primary, but was subsequently renominated and reelected senator.

Mr. Spaulding is generally regarded as representing another faction in the State Republican organization. The fact that he is also lined up for Hoover makes it pretty sure that New Hampshire's eleven delegates to the Republican convention will be for the Secretary of Commerce.

The announcement of Edward W. Forstel of St. Louis, that the Missouri delegation of 39 would not be in sympathy with any "futile" move to "draft" Coolidge came on the heels of a number of conferences the St. Louis leader had here yesterday.

It is believed that the Democrats should nominate either Al Smith or Jim Reed. The Republicans in his State would have hard sledding, but agreed that it would be easy to elect a Republican nominee for President next time so far as the country as a whole is concerned.

Record Political Marvel.

His record of victories in New York agains overwhelming odds at times is remarkable. Senator Smith, a strict religious grouch. Many Democrats are of the opinion that Smith's reply to Marshall punctured the opposition to him on this score, at least within his own party. There is no Smith organization in the field, no organized blocking of the government. His candidacy is merely rolling along, getting bigger and bigger and gathering momentum like a snowball on a hillside. Less and less is heard of the other aspirants such as Gov. Ritchie and Senator Reed of Missouri, both wets and willing heirs to the Smith support if Smith should fall by the wayside.

Electoral Case Priority.

Senator W. C. Smith of North Dakota, who called in the President primarily to discuss diversion of the Missouri River at Devils Lake, N. Dak., on the other hand urged an extra session of the Senate. He agrees with Senator Jones of Washington that the Smith and Vare cases are settled. Now Senator Caraway says that they need have no fear on that score.

The Arkansas senator incidentally made known that the South considers the whole food problem a Federal one, pure and simple. And in this he is believed to have the sympathy of members of Congress.

"It is not a problem for the South alone," Senator Caraway said. "The waters which came rushing down the Mississippi last spring came from 31 States. More than 40,000 square miles of land were flooded. I venture to say that if a similar disaster had affected New England the President would have had no hesitation in calling an extra session. Unfortunately he was unable to visualize the situation."

Confidence in Hoover.

The President himself is believed to agree that the problem belongs to the Federal Government, with the exception of possibly one phase. That is, that the Federal Government should pay the transportation and interest charges on levee taxes.

Mr. Hoover at Rapid City, in yielding to the President's desire that the need for a special session be not whopped up, said that $3,000,000 must be had by October 1. When asked how money will be available he probably one of the things he will discuss with the President. He also said that the Federal Government should make repairs to all the levees before fall. The President agreed and signed the bill as the two rivers and harbors funds for that purpose. Comptroller General McCarl has vetoed this transfer. So the Commerce Secretary may have some influencing information to give to the President.

Incidentally, Senator Caraway said, the "South" appreciates what Mr. Hoover has done. He has shown a sympathetic appreciation of our problems that was new to many of our residents. We want to wait until he has made his report. I think it would be much better to base whatever legislation may be proposed upon his report rather than upon the individual opinion of members of Congress."

TWO MORE STATES CONCEDE COOLIDGE WILL NOT RUN AGAIN

Significance Seen in Statements From New Hampshire and Missouri Leaders.

Missouri and New Hampshire followed Pennsylvania yesterday in accepting President Coolidge's decision that he would not be a candidate for another term. New Hampshire, through the word of Senator Moses and Gov. Spaulding, is committed to Herbert Hoover for President. Missouri, according to Edward W. Forstel, one of the recognized leaders of the St. Louis Republican organization, said he was not sure what candidate Missouri would be for, but that Missouri, "of course," accepted the President's decision that he did not desire the nomination and therefore any talk of "drafting" him would be futile.

Democrats plan to make it plenty hot for the administration if an extra session of Congress is not called to deal with the flood situation and it may be decided definitely that at this time the President has very little thought of calling one. This applies to special session of Congress or one of the Senate alone.

His judgment may be influenced in the other direction by Secretary of Commerce Hoover, who arrived from the flood region yesterday, and is unlikely to believe that the situation presents some pressing problems.

The Commerce Secretary is understood to have thought that an extra session was necessary when he was out at Rapid City this summer, but he subordinated his views to that of the President and subsequently again went South to try and make the best of the situation.

Senator George H. Moses, of Arkansas, and a group of trenchant tongues arrived yesterday and declared that the South would never agree to a temporary or piecemeal solution of the problem at this session. If it had been any other section of the country in trouble, he would, an extra session would have been convened long ago.

Democrats Dodge Control.

He also tried to dissipate what he was an apprehension on the part of the Republicans that the Democrats would try to get control of the Senate should an extra session be called. They have definitely agreed that they do not want the Senate management, he said.

Democrats to have any alibi for their shortcomings.

If this apprehension is what has caused such men as Majority Leader Wilson, Speaker Longworth and Senator Curtis to urge against the special session, however, they have not given off reason.

The House Speaker added his voice against the session to the President yesterday, asserting that nothing could be accomplished by having one, inasmuch as the chief engineers will not have a report on the flood situation ready before December 1.

Senator Caraway said there was no reason for a delay in the report.

The reports of the Army engineers and the Mississippi River Commission need not be delayed, he said. "Both of these agencies have been at work on the Mississippi for years. The floods are not a new thing and the South will certainly expect definite and final action at this session."

"Roughly, there are only two questions to be considered. The construction of additional levees and diversion I would like to see a compromise of the two theories. The Mississippi can not be expected to retain the swollen waters of the great waterways from the Appalachians to the Rockies. Mountain diversion and higher levees ought to remedy what is now a constant menace."

Borders See No Advantage.

Majority Leader Wilson has stated that it is idle to think anything that can be done by Congress at this session toward solution of the problem, and that is understood to be the attitude of Speaker Longworth. They can not see why the Congress should be convened ahead of time and as the situation seems to the members to have just that much more time to talk, especially the Democrats.

Senator Borah of Idaho, who called at the White House yesterday, said that while he did not care what Congress did, as he was to be here all the time, he nevertheless supported his observation that it never got down to work until about March 1 when adjournment is to be on March 4. The President did not ask him his opinion on the subject, and he did not tell him the session would be adjourned if it is his opinion that as much can be done in the allotted time as could be with additional time.

Speaker Longworth said after his conference with the President:

"There is no possibility of an extra session of 39. Nothing of a constructive nature could be accomplished so far as the House is concerned, because we are now to all intents and purposes already organized. At least it is possible for the big committees to function in addition to the operating Congress."

It has been his experience, he said, that more can be accomplished without Congress in session.

Electoral Case Priority.

Senator W. C. Smith of North Dakota, who called in the President primarily to discuss diversion of the Missouri River at Devils Lake, N. Dak., on the other hand urged an extra session of the Senate. He agrees with Senator Jones of Washington that the Smith and Vare cases are settled. Now Senator Caraway says that they need have no fear on that score.

The Arkansas senator incidentally made known that the South considers the whole food problem a Federal one, pure and simple. And in this he is believed to have the sympathy of members of Congress.

"It is not a problem for the South alone," Senator Caraway said. "The waters which came rushing down the Mississippi last spring came from 31 States. More than 40,000 square miles of land were flooded. I venture to say that if a similar disaster had affected New England the President would have had no hesitation in calling an extra session. Unfortunately he was unable to visualize the situation."

Confidence in Hoover.

The President himself is believed to agree that the problem belongs to the Federal Government, with the exception of possibly one phase. That is, that the Federal Government should pay the transportation and interest charges on levee taxes.

Mr. Hoover at Rapid City, in yielding to the President's desire that the need for a special session be not whopped up, said that $3,000,000 must be had by October 1. When asked how money will be available he probably one of the things he will discuss with the President. He also said that the Federal Government should make repairs to all the levees before fall. The President agreed and signed the bill as the two rivers and harbors funds for that purpose. Comptroller General McCarl has vetoed this transfer. So the Commerce Secretary may have some influencing information to give to the President.

Incidentally, Senator Caraway said, the "South" appreciates what Mr. Hoover has done. He has shown a sympathetic appreciation of our problems that was new to many of our residents. We want to wait until he has made his report. I think it would be much better to base whatever legislation may be proposed upon his report rather than upon the individual opinion of members of Congress."

COOLIDGE REFUSAL OF EXTRA SESSION BOILS DEMOCRATS

Plan to Wage War on Administration on Ground of Need for Flood Relief.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Missouri and New Hampshire followed Pennsylvania yesterday in accepting President Coolidge's decision that he would not be a candidate for another term. New Hampshire, through the word of Senator Moses and Gov. Spaulding, is committed to Herbert Hoover for President. Missouri, according to Edward W. Forstel, one of the recognized leaders of the St. Louis Republican organization, said he was not sure what candidate Missouri would be for, but that Missouri, "of course," accepted the President's decision that he did not desire the nomination and therefore any talk of "drafting" him would be futile.

Democrats plan to make it plenty hot for the administration if an extra session of Congress is not called to deal with the flood situation and it may be decided definitely that at this time the President has very little thought of calling one. This applies to special session of Congress or one of the Senate alone.

His judgment may be influenced in the other direction by Secretary of Commerce Hoover, who arrived from the flood region yesterday, and is unlikely to believe that the situation presents some pressing problems.

The Commerce Secretary is understood to have thought that an extra session was necessary when he was out at Rapid City this summer, but he subordinated his views to that of the President and subsequently again went South to try and make the best of the situation.

Senator George H. Moses, of Arkansas, and a group of trenchant tongues arrived yesterday and declared that the South would never agree to a temporary or piecemeal solution of the problem at this session. If it had been any other section of the country in trouble, he would, an extra session would have been convened long ago.

Democrats Dodge Control.

He also tried to dissipate what he was an apprehension on the part of the Republicans that the Democrats would try to get control of the Senate should an extra session be called. They have definitely agreed that they do not want the Senate management, he said.

Democrats to have any alibi for their shortcomings.

If this apprehension is what has caused such men as Majority Leader Wilson, Speaker Longworth and Senator Curtis to urge against the special session, however, they have not given off reason.

The House Speaker added his voice against the session to the President yesterday, asserting that nothing could be accomplished by having one, inasmuch as the chief engineers will not have a report on the flood situation ready before December 1.

Senator Caraway said there was no reason for a delay in the report.

The reports of the Army engineers and the Mississippi River Commission need not be delayed, he said. "Both of these agencies have been at work on the Mississippi for years. The floods are not a new thing and the South will certainly expect definite and final action at this session."

"Roughly, there are only two questions to be considered. The construction of additional levees and diversion I would like to see a compromise of the two theories. The Mississippi can not be expected to retain the swollen waters of the great waterways from the Appalachians to the Rockies. Mountain diversion and higher levees ought to remedy what is now a constant menace."

CHINESE BANDITS ROB MISSIONARY'S FAMILY

Three of Nicaraguan Band Die in Battle With U. S. Marines.

Associated Press.
Official reports of the murder or robbery of Americans in Mexico, Santo Domingo and China reached the State Department yesterday from consular officers.

In Mexico, the fatal shooting of David L. Fisher, of Philadelphia, a chief clerk in the Southern Pacific Railroad offices at Guadalajara by a Mexican employee was reported by the American consulate. Fisher died Wednesday night.

The consulate's dispatch told of radical disturbances at the Mazata mines in the Guadalajara region, and of occupation by rebels on September 10 of the property from which miners were forced to flee. The message also reported a renewal of activities of radical agitators at the Amparo mines, from which, it was said, Mexican troops, with the exception of a sergeant and five soldiers, had been withdrawn.

Held as Brewer's Slayer.

Another telegram from Guadalajara advised the State Department that Javer Diaz had been arrested for the recent murder of Arthur Brewer, an American.

From Santo Domingo came the official report of the killing of Rene R. Duncan, believed to be a naturalized American, from New York City, in a dispute over collection of an overdue account of $25. Consul James J. Murphy, Jr., who sent the message, said Rubin Saso, a Dominican, had been arrested for the shooting.

Dumarest was a representative of Dumarest Bros. Co., of New York City.

Chinese Attack Americans.

Attack by Chinese brigands on Marion Duncan, an American missionary, and his family and upon a British family named McLeod was reported by the consulate at Manila.

The consul received a letter from Duncan saying that the attack had occurred July 6 while his own and the British family were in the vicinity of Tsai Pass, north of Atunze. The missionaries made their way to Batang after having been robbed of all they possessed.

The killing of three bandits and probable mortal wounding of two others by a Marine detachment in Nicaragua was reported to the State Department by the Legation at Managua. The Marine patrol made an all-night forced march and surprised the band near Sanoto. The leader of the band was said to have been "the Honduran bandit, Santos Lobo."

Troops Reported Driving Back Bandits of Mexico

Nogales, Ariz., Sept. 15 (A.P.)—Advises to the Nogales Herald from the Mexican West Coast that bandit activities in the state of Nayarit, which have made that section dangerous to travel recently, now seem limited to a defense against federal troops. Other groups are reported remaining quietly in mountain ranges of Nayarit and Jalisco.

Nothing has been heard recently from the bandit leader, Al Pilar, who was said to have a force of 300 men and who was reported in hiding recovering from wounds received in a skirmish with federal troops near Caponeta. It was near this point that

REVISION PLANNED IN ADMINISTRATING EXISTING TAX LAW

Reform May Give Law Makers as Much Trouble as Rate Decisions.

JOINT COMMITTEE RIFT MAKES TASK DIFFICULT

Wide Differences Between House and Senate Seen as Legislation Proceeds.

(Associated Press.)

Revision of the administrative features of the present tax law is a problem which is expected to give the new Congress almost as much trouble as that of deciding what rates are to be lowered and the amount of the reduction.

A solution of that problem is not made any easier by the rift in the joint congressional committee which was created under the present statute to study the question of revision of the tax laws. As a result, wide differences between the House and the Senate are likely to develop as the revenue legislation proceeds on its way through Congress.

Legend of Postcard Worries Postmasters

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 16 (A.P.)—And now comes the small town postmaster to deny that he reads the postcards.

"This old canard is going to receive serious attention," declare officials of the National League of District Postmasters, which meets here October 18 to 21.

An effort will be made to prove to the people of the country that their community postmasters are too busy to spend time prying into other people's affairs.

The league embraces approximately 2,000 heads of third and fourth class postoffices. Among matters to be considered is support for bills pending in Congress to put third-class postmasters under Civil Service regulations, and to obtain governmental appropriation for rent, light and fuel in fourth-class revenue measure was considered.

House Members Active.

Chairman Green and other House members of the committee have been in Washington during the present recess of Congress, conferring with Treasury officials and studying concrete cases of the operations of administrative features of the law now in force and the regulations issued by the Treasury under those features.

A report for this committee now is being prepared and will be taken up at a meeting which Chairman Green is expected to call for the middle of October. The report will be studied carefully and revised with a view to having it in a compact form when the House ways and means committee meets in October to begin consideration of a tax revision measure.

Recommendations of the committee will form the basis for revision of the present administrative features which have not worked out to the entire satisfaction either of the Treasury or Congress.

Mr. Arnold, a high official of the economic department, addressed his callers on the French tariff policy, explaining that France had given certain concessions to the United States in 1910 and 1921 which she no longer could extend. The government, however, would be very much pleased, he said, to enter on a reciprocal trade agreement resting on the principle of favors given for those received.

Mr. Arnold was asked to tell the American view.

M. Arnal remarked that tariff relations between France and America had not been on a contractual basis heretofore. His remarks were in substance a paraphrase of the paper lying before him which he referred to Mr. Coolidge. This, he said, was the form in which the government wished its reply to be transmitted to Washington with the mutual understanding that the text would not be made public either in Paris or Washington for the present.

FRENCH REJECT U. S. TARIFF OFFER; TRADE CLASH MAY COME

the feeling apparently was general that such an agreement could not be concluded in less than three or four months.

Communiqué by Embassy.

The French communication not only rejected the most-favored-nation treaty negotiations, but declined to grant any temporary remittance for American goods of the maximum schedule to the French tariff reform decree of August 20, 1926, and until the United States had formally committed itself to the French proposal for negotiations on a give and take reciprocity basis as to specific duties imposed by each country.

In the event of an agreement for such negotiations, the French would be willing to grant a 50 per cent easement from maximum tariff rates on American goods affected, but warned that this temporary relief would be promptly withdrawn and the full maximum rates reimposed in the event the negotiations failed.

The communication reached the State Department late in the day and there was no opportunity for detailed consideration. It was withheld from publication under the cloak of confidentiality that the opportunity of simultaneous publication of such communications by the originative government, but Associated Press dispatches from Paris were said to have confirmed closely to the note.

French Proposal Made.

Paris, Sept. 15 (A.P.)—A proposal which is being furnished as a basis for negotiations with the United States on the question of tariff rates, but which even in quarters close to the French government, does not yet satisfy Washington, was made today by France.

France proposed to accord to American commodity a 50 per cent reduction of the general tariff now effective. This general tariff is four times the minimum rate and thus American products would have to pay twice the minimum rate.

Some congressional leaders said yesterday they had not been oversanguine as to the extent of the work that the joint committee might be able to do.

They recalled that the proposal of the committee was advanced while the special Senate committee under Senator Couzens, Republican, Michigan, was carrying forward its investigation into the methods of tax settlements pursued in the Internal Revenue Bureau.

With the Bureau then under sharp attack from the Couzens committee because of the methods used in settling the tax cases of many large corporations, there was a proposal to combine the joint committee with the Senate Finance Committee.

The proposed reduction would be effective during negotiations with the United States looking toward a commercial treaty.

Until a reply from the United States saying that government is ready to begin discussions the present high rates will prevail.

The French government's reply was communicated in a form which is called in diplomatic language "aide memoire" which is a degree more informal than the so-called white note.

Ready for Reciprocity.

The note, which was not made public, was handed to Sheldon Whitehouse, American ambassador to France, who, with Raymond C. Maury, assistant commercial attaché, called at the diplomatic division of the foreign office by appointment.

M. Arnal, a high official of the economic department, addressed his callers on the French tariff policy, explaining that France had given certain concessions to the United States in 1910 and 1921 which she no longer could extend. Sent Here at Once.

The reply was telegraphed to Washington with promptness by the American consul.

The American business community in Paris is much dissatisfied with the reply, it was indicated this afternoon in their protests to the American commercial attaché's office, especially after word had been spread that the minimum tariff, which already was regarded as high, was to be doubled in the case of American goods, while German and British competitors would be favored by it.

THE LEGISLATIVE OUTLOOK.

Day to day developments tend to destroy the picture of a hard working and industrious Congress, which Senator Charles Curtis painted for the President. The Kansas senator, majority floor leader, in expressing his opposition to an early call of Congress, ventured the opinion that there would be ample time after December for the transaction of all necessary business. Under normal conditions this optimistic statement might be accepted at full value, even in the light of the known aptitude of Congress for wasting time.

The Seventieth Congress will not be normal at its first session. The Senate particularly will be abnormal. One evidence of abnormality is the Smith and Vare dispute. Precedent and the rules of the Senate say one thing, yet that body gives some indication of reaching a conclusion in direct contradiction to the established order. Senator Curtis and all of his associates have not suggested any procedure by which normal and customary practice may be substituted for the long drawn out and strong arm method in which the Senate dealt with the Smith case in the Sixty-ninth Congress.

The very complexion of the Senate will be abnormal. The Republicans have a paper majority of one, subject to attacks from within and without. Already a call has been issued for the formation of a progressive bloc, designed to destroy the illusory hold which Senator Curtis may have upon his colleagues. Senator Gerald P. Nye, of North Dakota, has drawn a platform and chosen a leader for his movement of discontent. Every single convert that he gains makes certain that the Republican party as such will be a minority instead of majority groups in the Senate. On what old fashioned fundamental issues this winter, farm relief and tax reduction, the progressive bloc has its own theories, utterly at variance with those of the administration. What chance is there for the expeditious transaction of business under such circumstances?

Now is the list of unusual factors complete. The President has renounced the office. The Senate, even within the Republican party, will be composed of many minds, all dealing with their own presidential ambitions or those of others. Such teamwork as at times is shown between the legislative and executive branches of the Government, threatens to be sadly disrupted. The measure of Senator Curtis' optimism may be gained by the fact that he does not become a pessimist in the face of such an outlook.

The very abnormality of the situation may have influenced the Republican leaders in their opposition to an extra session. They may feel that such a muddled state of affairs will work out better if it is not too greatly prolonged. They will have as a lever with which to force the Nation's business to some sort of a conclusion, the fact that many members of Congress will be anxious to get away for the convention campaigns. Any such supposition, however, begs the issue and leaves much to the future. The troubles ahead can not be avoided by ignoring them now.

POULTRY AND EGGS.

When the farm wife depended upon "Biddy," the hen, to reproduce her kind through the medium provided by nature, little attention was paid to any of the ailments of the flock. About the only diseases recognized were the pip and roup. But today Dr. Mohler, chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry, in an address before the Veterinary Association points out that "the last decade has witnessed an amazing change in the scope and method of poultry and egg production. The humble hen is now a recognized asset, a chief source of income and as such is favored with the best feed, shelter and attention," which makes it desirable that the services of a veterinarian should be secured whenever there may appear indication of disease among the flocks.

Dr. Mohler called the attention of the association to the fact that chicken breeders sold $800,000,000 baby chicks last year and that the American hens lay "760 eggs every second of time," or at the rate of 2,000,000,000 dozen a year. According to this expert in animal foods the annual value of American poultry products is in excess of $1,000,000,000, "or 16 per cent of the live stock production of the country and outranked only by dairy products and the swine industry."

Yet in spite of her importance in the commercial life of the country, Dr. Mohler declared, the hen has never come into her legal rights, in the way of recognition by law, and has not had her fair share of the attentions of Congress. That body, while taking particular pains to appropriate funds for the eradication of hog cholera and bovine T. B., has done little or nothing toward insuring the comfort and health of the barnyard fowl or its more aristocratic relatives in the henries. It was acknowledged that Congress did authorize the appropriation of funds for the extermination of the European fowl pest after it had obtained a foothold in some nine States. That was in 1924.

Congress has taken steps to protect the consumer from the dangers following the use of diseased pork, beef and mutton and milk from diseased cows, and in view of the extensive use of poultry flesh as human food it would seem that the next step toward insuring wholesomeness for the American table must come through Federal inspection of the poultry supply.

THE TRAFFIC DRIVE.

Aroused over the way in which District motorists are violating certain important traffic regulations, Maj. Hesse, superintendent of police, has organized a special squad of 30 bicycle and motorcycle officers, recruited from the various precincts, to operate directly from the traffic bureau in a campaign to bring about strict observance of the law. Instructions have been given the squad to keep on the lookout especially for motorists who drive through safety zones, ignore stop signs or traffic lights, drive at excessive speed around corners, drive at night with but one headlight, or steer slow-moving vehicles in the center of the street so as to obstruct traffic, rather than near the curb, out of the way. No longer will offenders be let off with only a warning as has been the custom heretofore. Those caught during the drive will be taken directly into court, where the department has requested the cooperation of the judges to make the campaign successful.

Undoubtedly the traffic situation has become considerably worse during the past few weeks. Violations of the regulations may be witnessed on every street and at every intersection. The drive undertaken by the Police Department probably has come just in time to avert serious accidents.

If local motorists can not be made to realize that observance of traffic regulations is to their own advantage, they will have to be forced into obedience by the police, in order that pedestrians may be assured of safety, and so that the conservative, law-abiding motorist will not have to pay the penalty of another's carelessness. Periodic drives by the department may be sufficient to keep the situation under control. Judging from past experience, however, one is forced to the belief that as soon as the extra vigilance is withdrawn, local motorists will go back to their old "each for himself and devil take the hindmost" policy.

The superintendent of police is to be commended that he has undertaken a concerted drive to make local streets safe. If at its conclusion matters show tendency to go back to their old state, it would be wise if a permanent roving traffic force be established to be vigilant at all times against violations of the regulations.

SLOGANS AND LAW.

Several days ago the Woman's National Democratic Club of Washington mailed out circulars to thousands of registered Democratic voters throughout the country advising them that prizes would be awarded for the best campaign slogans submitted, provided that an entrance fee of $1 "to assist in defraying the clerical expenses incident to a contest on so large a scale," was submitted with the slogan.

The Postoffice Department got wind of the matter, however, and now its solicitor has informed the promoters that the campaign as outlined is in violation of the lottery laws.

It looks like rather a mean trick to pull on these Democratic women. There is no doubt that the scheme is in violation of the lottery laws, but under the circumstances something should be worked out to enable them to continue. What would the next campaign be without a slogan? The Republican party, surely, would not want to campaign against an opponent unfortified with a tongue-pleasing phrase.

The Woman's Democratic Club has no funds with which to conduct a contest, so some means had to be devised to make it self-supporting. What would Mr. Burleson have done under the circumstances?

Yet, even if the contest must be called off, irreparable damage may not have been done. Possibly, even if it had been continued to a successful conclusion, no happier phrase would have been selected for the Democrats than—"Eight Years of Wall Street—now give Main street a chance."

NEEDED INVENTIONS.

The Institute of Patentees in London publishes a book entitled "What's Wanted," in which are listed suggestions for needed inventions. The latest issue contains many new challenges to inventive genius. For instance, it is suggested that a folding umbrella which might be carried in the pocket, when not in use, would earn for its inventor handsome royalties, and an unbreakable shoe lace would be such a boon to mankind that its patentee might live a leisurely life of ease. Windows of unbreakable, clear and flexible glass; non-slippery floor polish; a motor car that could swim across a river; an attachment for a music stand that would turn the pages; these are but a few of the things that the public feels need of.

Thousands of other suggestions might be offered. A genuinely comfortable Pullman bed has never been invented. An automatic cook to prepare a meal would be a boon to the bridge-playing lady of the house. A selective silencer for loud-speakers which would enable those who want to listen to a program to do so without disturbing others in the room, would be a revolutionary blessing in this radio age. A golf ball which would not slice, a palatable cure for snake bite, bed sheets that will not pull out at the ends, a vest that will not creep up to show a line of shirt between it and the trousers top; these are but a few of the devices for which the world has been waiting. Where, however, is the genius to invent them?

SNEEZING TIME IS HERE.

There are some citizens of Washington who believe that they need no calendar to advise them of the arrival of August 20 in any year. The mucous lining of their bronchial tubes and of their noses gives all the information that is necessary in this respect, for August 20 is recognized throughout the District of Columbia as the date for the arrival of the hay fever season.

It is in the middle of August usually that the rag weed decides to shed its pollen, necessary to produce the sniffling, sneezing affliction known as hay fever. But this year the rag weed, possibly misled into the belief that there was to be no summer at all, failed to arrange for a supply of pollen for the regular hay fever date. Instead of August 20 the fever victims were compelled to wait until September 5, and in some sections even a week longer before being able to sneeze sufficiently to warrant their belief that the rag weed was doing its full duty.

Hay fever is late this year largely because the giant rag weed was held back in its pollen-producing activities through the wet and cold spring. It is true that the smaller variety of the weed arrived with its pollen on time, or nearly so, but the dwarf is not as effective in inflaming mucous linings as its larger relative. That noxious member of the vegetable family is on the job at last, much to the satisfaction of the handkerchief salesmen, who always expect to reap a harvest in August and who feared that business would be extremely dull this year.

Hay fever is now fashionable throughout the whole Eastern section of the country. Sneezing is a popular sport and she who can not sneeze satisfactorily can not expect a trip to the mountains or the Thousand Islands, which have always been regarded as the safest havens for the hay fever sufferers. If you are susceptible now is the time to sneeze.

THE POLO TRIUMPH.

Just as the Davis Cup is being packed, to leave the United States for France, comes the welcome news that the international polo trophy will remain in this country for another three years. The Americans have ridden off the challenge of the British team successfully. One game was a hollow triumph for the defenders, the second and last a much more exciting, but it served to give the United States six victories out of the last seven international matches that have been played.

Polo history in the United States dates back to the days of the "big four," when Harry Payne Whitney, the elder Hitchcock and their associates first lifted the trophy from British hands. Skilled observers say that the ancient combination could have done no better than the Americans did this year in the first game played at Meadowbrook. The present team was composed of men who have been the backbone of American polo for the past decade. Just before the matches began the defense committee decided that the experienced veterans would be best and displaced the two less seasoned players that had at first been chosen. The selection was eminently correct, as play disclosed.

The consistency with which the United States has retained the polo cup is evidence of the manner in which the athletes of this nation have adopted the games of other countries and surpassed the designers of the sport. Polo was imported from India by the British. It has for long been the sport of that nation's cavalry regiments. All that this country knows about polo it has acquired. Its players have been good pupils. Once only the pastime of the very rich, polo is now played wherever men love and use horses. Good polo is played in Washington, because of the Army influence here. Ranchers of the West have adopted it as a pleasant form of recreation. It is gaining a foothold in the larger colleges. If it is not now, it soon will be as popular here as it is abroad.

In this year's matches the British came well prepared. Men and ponies, the latter a most important adjunct of the game, came here weeks before the date of the matches in order to become acclimated. There was, experts declare, little to choose in the way of mounts, unless it was that the English had the better ponies. The Americans outplayed and outdrove their opponents. It was a triumph justly earned and well merited.

ARGENTINA OBJECTS TO SNOOPERS.

Argentina's protest against the action of the United States Tariff Commission in sending a junketing party to the Southern republic to inquire into the cost of producing corn and flax will be likely to influence Congress to amend the law under which these prying investigations have been carried on. Argentina is not the first country to protest against the prying operations of representatives of the United States into their domestic affairs. Many years ago a consul stationed in Glauca, Germany, an important textile manufacturing district, entered one of the German technical schools as a student for the sole purpose of learning something of German costs of manufacture. The object was in that case to prevent the undervaluation of the exports of that region to the United States. He discovered altogether too much and as a result German textile schools were closed to Americans.

Since the enactment of that section of the tariff law which authorizes the President to lower or raise duties upon imported merchandise upon recommendation of the Tariff Commission, that body has sent numerous junketing parties to Europe for the alleged purpose of learning manufacturing costs of various articles of import with the view to recommendations to the President. Sometimes these travelers are able to secure facts of value, and then again nothing is heard from them as to their findings. It is possible that the party now supposed to be somewhere in Belgium or France, or possibly England, may find out why the window glass manufacturers of Ohio and Pennsylvania can not compete with their foreign trade rivals, and it is even possible that the agents of the commission might have learned much of value concerning the agricultural operations of Argentina but for the protest. But in view of the fact that the Department of Commerce has under its jurisdiction a very large force of experts in trade matters who are permanently employed and who report regularly to the department upon just such facts as appear to be required by the Tariff Commission, it would seem that instead of incurring the expense of so many special investigating missions that the commission might call on the Department of Commerce for the information, which certainly is quite as available to the well trained members of Dr. Klein's bureau as to any special parties sent out as exploring expeditions which are naturally represented by the foreigners.

There is altogether too much duplication among the departments in work of this character. Our consuls and special trade agents are well trained and competent to obtain fully as much technical information as the junketers of the bureau, known as the United States Tariff Commission. Congress should take steps to curtail these prying operations. Representatives of the State and Commerce Departments, in the performance of their duties obtain commercial information without creating enmities. Investigators on special missions leave the impression that they are endeavoring to secure unfair advantages which invariably defeat the object sought.

Roundabout Route.

Philadelphia Evening Bulletin: If Canadian whisky for the big fight at Chicago has to be shipped via Philadelphia, it can not be so easy getting across the border as some people suppose it to be.

Shortcoming of Science.

Brunswick Pilot: Science can predict an eclipse of the sun years in advance, but can not forecast a blowout over the weekend.

Senate, and announces that he is a candidate for reelection. His decision simplifies matters only slightly in Ohio and has no effect whatever in other States, but he doubtless feels that he has saved himself the disappointment that comes to a multitude of "favorite sons" every four years. But whatever his reasons, he has denied himself the passing fame of a complimentary vote, and that is rather unusual with the conventions and the campaign still so remote.

Gypsy Kidnapping.

Richmond Times Dispatch: Speaking of the American Legion convention in Paris—some of the veterans say that will not attend one of those things until the war will have been over long enough for the privates of 1917-18 to have become "colonels" and "generals."

Deceptive I. Q. Tests.

Omaha World Herald: So far as we can recollect, the only authentic case of gypsy kidnapping of which we ever heard occurred in the opera, "The Bohemian Girl." There are circumstances which cause us to doubt whether the evidence of this work is entirely reliable. Nevertheless, it seems to be a fixed and unalterable popular notion that gypsies are chiefly occupied with going about the country and kidnapping other people's children.

For Novelty's Sake.

Cincinnati Enquirer: Even if she doesn't mind the cold you'd think a girl would at least put on nice warm things underneath once in a while, just for the pleasure of changing to something different.

Senator Fess Abdicates.

Philadelphia Public Ledger: In the garden of presidential hopes, cultivated so assiduously by "favorite sons," since the Coolidge "abdication" on August 2, there is a vacant plot. Senator Simon D. Fess, often mentioned as a contender with Senator Frank B. Willis and Speaker Nicholas Longworth for the honor of being Ohio's leading entry in the Republican national convention exhibit, has uprooted his tender little boom and cast it aside. He admits he was well pleased to have been included in the list of presidential possibilities, but prefers to remain in the Senate, and announces that he is a candidate for reelection. His decision simplifies matters only slightly in Ohio and has no effect whatever in other States, but he doubtless feels that he has saved himself the disappointment that comes to a multitude of "favorite sons" every four years. VIRGINIA CHAPTERS OF RED CROSS TOLD IDEALS OF SERVICE

National Chairman Payne Is
Chief Speaker at Roll Call Workers' Session.

COORDINATION KEYNOTE OF SUCCESS, HE SAYS

Washington-Lee High School
Registration Shows Need of Expansion.

ARLINGTON COUNTY,
BUREAU OF THE POST,
Clarendon, Va.
Tel. Clar. 509.

Speaking at the tenth roll call regional conference of the American Red Cross, held yesterday in the auditorium of the Washington Lee High School, John Barton Payne, chairman of America's National Red Cross Federation, there must be coordination of those who lead and those who follow in the work of the Red Cross to make it effective.

"The American Red Cross was founded at Stevens in 1884, and today is organized in 55 countries throughout the world."

"The Red Cross has no opinion on politics, race or religion. Its object is service, taking care of disaster victims and providing assistance to the needy."

The Red Cross is controlled by eighteen persons, six appointed by the President of the United States, six by the chapters and six by the incorporators, organized in 1905.

Mr. Payne said that 55 per cent of the Red Cross funds are spent in the localities where they are collected.

State Senator Frank L. Ball delivered the address of welcome to the more than 100 delegates attending the conference.

The Virginia chapters and the District of Columbia were represented at the conference. The Virginia chapters represented were Fairfax, Fauquier, Quantico Marines, Prince William, Arlington and Clarke County, Fredericksburg, Falls Church and Alexandria City.

The opening session was opened by a band concert by the Fort Myer Band. Mrs. Jennifer Broadbudd, chairman of the Arlington County Chapter, presided. Reports of chapter activities during the year were submitted. According to the reports, all chapters exceeded their quota in donations.

Others who spoke on the activities of the Red Cross in their respective branches were Mrs. Harry C. Barnes, executive secretary of the District of Columbia Chapter; Henry T. Baker and Miss Edith Beckham, who spoke at length on the work of the Junior Red Cross.

Fire of unknown origin threatened the store of H. W. Dubb at Ballston, yesterday, causing damage estimated at $1,500.

Firemen from the Ballston department, who were first on the scene, with the aid of chemicals, soon had the fire under control. Water was obtained after much effort from Lacy Station, a half-mile away.

St. Charles Parochial School at Clarendon opened its sixth session Tuesday with an enrollment of 150, the highest opening attendance since the school started six years ago. It is expected that the enrollment will reach 300. One new teacher has been added this year.

According to S. P. Vandervelde, principal of the Washington Lee High School, the total registration has reached 875. The school this year will open with the largest enrollment in its history.

With the school population increasing at the rate it is, more room will soon be needed at the high school, he said.

William W. Livingston, of Clarendon, was elected high priest at the meeting of the Cherrystone Royal Arch Chapter of Masons held last night in the Masonic Temple. Other officers installed were Hugh Reid, master; Harry B. Mason, scribe; Samuel F. Cooper, treasurer; Clayton Speer, secretary; G. Samuel Warner, captain of the host; John E. Oliver, principal sojourner; Frank U. Sanderson, Royal Arch captain; J. F. Bushong, grand master of the third veil; A. B. Horinek, grand master of the first veil; H. W. Dickinson, tyler; H. C. Crutchley and G. C. Shears, chaplains.

The newly elected officers were installed by Right Excellent Deputy Grand High Priest C. A. Mason.

Following the installation a banquet was served.

There will be a teachers' meeting of all the white schools today at the Washington-Lee High School. The colored schools will meet at Kemper School.

The county schools opening on Monday, Fletcher Kemp, county school superintendent, requests that all teachers attend the meeting today.

Suits for divorce were filed in the office of county clerk yesterday by Virginia May Santmyer against Franklin Santmyer; Ethel Cushing Brant against Gerald Clark Brant, and Earl V. Garrison against Earles A. Garrison.

Plans will be discussed looking to the organizing of a Masonic Club in Arlington County at a special meeting to be held at the Masonic Temple at Clarendon tomorrow night. All Masons in the county interested in the proposed movement are requested to attend.

There will be a meeting of the Lawrence Michael for County Treasurer Club tonight in the old Columbia Pike School house. Among the speakers will be Lawrence Michael, B. M. Derrick, Republican candidate for supervisor from Arlington County, and Edgar W. Pumphrey, Republican candidate for commonwealth's attorney.

MAN, 69, STABS WIFE,
29; ENDS OWN LIFE

Dies After Attacking Two Stepchildren and His Daughter.

Anderson, S. C., Sept. 13 (A.P.)—Mrs. Annie Arnold Julian, 29 years old, has regained consciousness and physicians at the Anderson County Hospital said tonight hope was held for her recovery, following an attack on her early yesterday by her husband, George Julian, 69 years old. Julian later committed suicide with a pocket knife after attacking his wife, two stepchildren and his own child, Clara Julian, who is now in the hospital.

The tragedy was enacted early yesterday after Julian had returned to his home, retired and later arose, announcing his intention of "ending all." Julian had been separated from his wife for several months, returning to Anderson on July 1.

Using a pocketknife and a piece of iron he attacked Mrs. Julian, causing injuries that required 50 stitches in her head and body. After felling her he turned upon the children, attacking his own daughter, Clara, and two stepchildren, Elton, 10, and Mary Anne.

Elton ran for a policeman after she had been knocked to the floor. Mrs. Julian and Clara were found unconscious on the bed by police.

After the attack Julian slashed his arm, dying three hours later from loss of blood.

BOY WHO KILLED TWO TO FACE SANITY TEST

Special Jury to Investigate
Slaying of Parents by Young Collins.

Roanoke, Va., Sept. 15 (A.P.)—A special grand jury, which will convene tomorrow morning, will investigate the case of William Thomas Collins, 17 years old, who calmly told the police that he shot and killed his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Collins, here Tuesday morning. He waived the preliminary hearing in Police Court yesterday.

In the meantime, a board composed of Dr. DeJarnett, of the Western State Hospital, Staunton; Dr. T. D. Armistead and Dr. Leigh Buckner, of this city, will test Collins' sanity.

Apparently resigned to his fate, the boy had collected himself today after giving up what was described as "a miserable day" yesterday, when he was near collapse.

The question of motive still puzzles the authorities. Three theories are being examined to determine if the boy shot his parents because they had engaged in a quarrel, as he says, or if another motive, one perhaps of greater malice, existed.

The contents of a "little black box," in which reposed many of the lad's treasures, greatly interested investigators yesterday. The box, bound in black leather, contained a watch with a silver belt buckle, a gold ring and an odd collection of letters, notes and photographs.

Rockville Marriage Licenses.

Especially in Househeating—"You can do it Better With Gas"

GAS HEATING How Much Does It Cost?

THE high cost of automatic gas heating is only a myth! If you compare the annual dollar and cents cost of "BRYANT" Gas Heating with the cost of coal or oil—considering fuel cost, labor of furnace tending and handling ashes for coal, and including the cost of gas pilot lights, electricity and depreciation of burner equipment for oil—gas heating is generally not a great deal more expensive.

Judged by standards of comfort, cleanliness and convenience, no heating method offers such outstanding heating value as gas. There is no stoking, nor shoveling of ashes, nor drafts to adjust—the only work you have to do is strike a match the first chilly day in the Fall. A Bryant requires "no more care or attention than a pup can give it."

Just what the cost will be for your home can be closely estimated by a good gas heating engineer. We will gladly have an accurate estimate prepared—without charge. Merely call, phone or write us. If, in the meantime, you would like more complete details of this carefree heating service, write for a copy of the booklet, "Let the Pup Be Your Furnace Man."

Man Killed by Train
Believed to Be Writer

New York, Sept. 15 (A.P.)—The body of a man killed by a locomotive at Eighth street and the North River August 31 was identified today as that of Lionel Strachey, 64, said to be a member of a well-known English literary family.

The late J. St. Leo Strachey, editor of the London Spectator, and Lytton Strachey, author of "Queen Victoria" and other critical biographies, were said to be first cousins of the dead man. His father was George Strachey, for many years secretary of the British Embassy in Vienna.

Strachey had been for more than fifteen years connected with the Paget Literary Agency of this city as critic of the work of English authors and its subscribers to the American market. He was the author of several novels and short stories and was staff editor of the "Outline of Christianity," a symposium upon the subject.

Young Hill's attorneys were said to be preparing to ask that he either be released on bond or formally arraigned immediately on the charge of murdering his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Hill, and the motion, headed by his attorney Hansen, issued a statement saying the youth's release would not be contested, provided bail was set at $100,000.

Do Not Delay— Enjoy satisfactory oil heat this Winter

JUST as the modern home depends on electricity to take the drudgery out of household tasks, so it finds in electrically operated and controlled oil heat the highest development of heating science.

Every home owner is interested in oil heat, for no other modern convenience is so beneficial to the health and comfort of every member of the family.

Last winter half a million American homes enjoyed the cleanliness, convenience, dependability and uniform temperature of automatic oil heat. These families have written heating troubles off the calendar. They wonder now how they ever endured the dirt, annoyance and drudgery of their previous heating methods.

It is estimated that more than 200,000 additional home owners will avail themselves of the advantages of oil heat this winter. You, too, are undoubtedly planning to enjoy oil heat some time. Why not obtain full information now?

Information, illustrated booklets and estimates will be gladly furnished without obligation by any Oil Burner Dealer appearing in this advertisement

The Homemaker

We have based our menu today on a dish of smelts, but before we give our attention to the recipes for this menu I want to steal a little time from our column and discuss for a moment the fish itself, for it's not a food that is very commonly known or greatly used by American housewives, and it is a particularly good fish.

The gentleman, Dr. David Starr Jordan, who was an eminent ichthyologist, after three breaths I found that this means to live on flesh of fish) is quoted as stating that the eulachon is the "finest food fish in the world," and the eulachon is akin to the smelt in size, shape and we may also say in taste.

I think we may easily realize the idea of cooking smelt for it means, as a rule, one pan after another of patient frying. But if we are able to get away from the fried idea and prepare this fish in other ways this wonderful food is saved, which will enable us to really enjoy these delicate tender little fish.

The American smelt, which is the smelt of this country, is to be found in market during the winter months, and—the middle of September—marks the arrival of the eulachon. They come to us from the Atlantic coast waters, from as far south as Virginia and as far north as the Gulf of St. Lawrence. They are found in plenty also in Lake Champlain; in fact, most of the fish of Newfoundland and Nova Scotia. This means that they are, in their season, an inexpensive commodity, and personally I feel that we miss much pleasure when we fail to seek out new ways and means of using them.

There are two kinds of smelt which reach our markets, those which have been taken through the ice and which are frequently "naturally" frozen, and those which have not been frozen, or

GROWING. THE BABY'S 24-HOUR

JOB

MARY READ, writing of sleep for children in "Mothercraft Manual," makes the statement that sleeping is the chief occupation of a baby.

There is not much justification for quibbling over words, but I should say eating, digesting, assimilating, and growing are the baby's chief occupations. He spends more time in sleeping than he does in eating, or even eating and digesting, but when assimilating and growing are added the group becomes a 24-hour job, and it is a job requiring work. We would not quarrel over putting sleep second, and calling it an avocation.

The sleep schedule she gives follows: From birth up to the fourth week sleep should consume a total of 22 hours; of the 24; during the fourth week, 21 hours.

Begun with the second month the schedule calls for 20 hours; third month, 19 hours; fourth month, 18 hours; fifth month, 16 hours; eighth month, 15 hours.

At 1 year of age the sleep requirement is 15 hours; 1 to 4 years, 14 hours; 4 to 6 years, 10 to 8 years, 12 hours; 8 to 10 years, 11½ hours; 10 to 12 years, 11 hours; 12 to 14 years, 10½ hours; 14 to 16 years, 10 hours; 16 to 18 years, 9 hours.

This schedule sounds mechanical. The plan for cutting off an extra hour on certain Monday mornings seems

MODISH MITZI

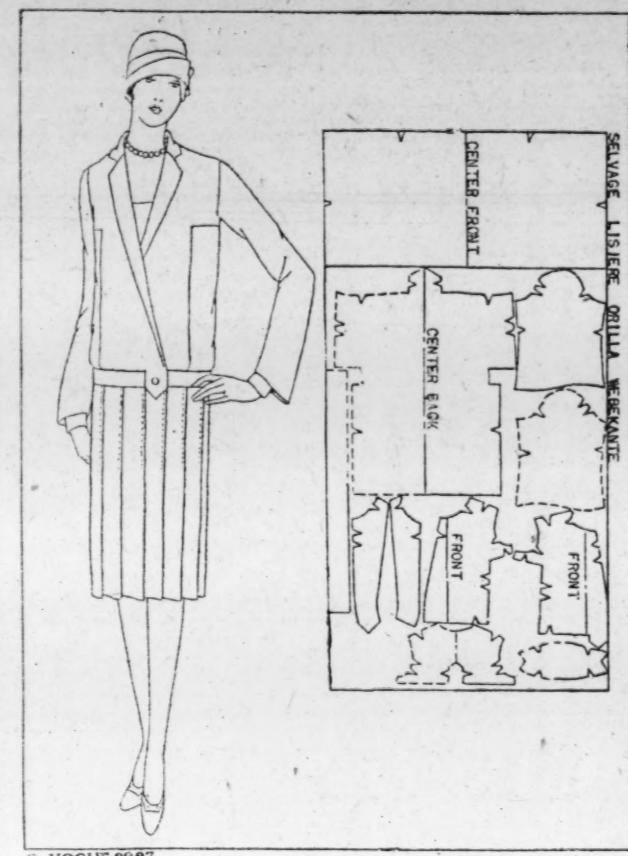

Mitzi's Fearless for Fashion, Anyway

Mitzi would so much like to drive the Goofer's new racing car. No, she isn't at all afraid. She scorns the idea. In fact, she's thinking it would be nice to fly to Paris—that's where her gown came from. (It shows a bewilderingly intricate cut and a completely simple silhouette. Both these qualities are characteristic of this season's fashions.) Mitzi is afraid of nothing—not when she's dressed in an evening gown of the new fashionable orange in two contrasting shades. Polly, in a belted and buckled chiffon frock, is quite entranced at Mitzi's daring. She wishes she weren't afraid of anything!

"green" smelt. The latter are preferable and as rule demand a higher price.

To prepare this fish the head is cut off and the material within the fish removed by making an incision the full length of the underbody. The fish is then to be thoroughly washed, of course. As the butcher usually attends to this we are not actively concerned with the cleaning but the cook does intend to do this. And this menu I have planned stuffed baked smelts trusting that the dealer will have them on hand when to market we go this morning.

- Prune Whip
- Coffee

Baked Stuffed Smelts.

Clean and dry eight selected smelts. Make a stuffing of one tablespoonful finely chopped onion which has been browned in butter, a quarter of a cupful of dry bread crumbs which have been molten with milk, two tablespoonsfuls chopped green pepper (cooked with the onions) and one slice of bacon finely chopped. Add celery salt, salt and pepper to taste. When these ingredients are thoroughly mixed add a teaspoonful of tomato catsup. Stuff the fish, pressing the edges together and tying with a bit of twine, brush over with lemon juice and bake for ten minutes in a moderate oven. Remove from the oven, sprinkle with buttered cracked crumbs and return to oven until crumbs brown nicely.

Should smelts not be available, halibut steak may be substituted in this menu.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

EAR Miss McDonald: My husband and I have gotten along nicely during the twenty years of our married life, only for our differences regarding our management of the children. He has always been quite severe and impatient with them. His work takes him away from home much of the time, so of course I have the responsibility of the care and problem of the children more than the average wife. I have, for some time, considered being the kind of mother that I had always hoped to be, but only because my time, means and strength have been taxed to the limit. Now my problem I'm wanting to present to you is this: You know what the present-day problem of the wife is, and that is such a desire to be on the go all the time and so many ways and means for them to get into trouble if they are so inclined, and I have not had that to contend with and I have two young girls 16 and 18. My 16-year-old girl is not a type to care for Tom, Dick and Harry, but she is a girl who does appreciate a thoroughly nice, clean boy and at present has a friend who is quite out of the ordinary—a perfect gentleman, ambitious and interesting, and they have been in the habit of spending Friday evening together at the theater, school or his home. His father's health is not good and he enjoys having her come out and play the piano for him. Her father opposes everything I have allowed in this way; he thinks she should spend most of her time with him. He even spends the time she spends with her girl friend at school and the boy friends to one night a week and does not allow her out on school nights. She is of a rather affectionate disposition and has been so with her father, more or less, but his attitude of late has almost produced an estrangement between them.

What can I do? The boy and the girl are going to any place, such as a show or friend's house. I have given them permission to go and come in his machine. They are both dependable and are required to be home at a certain time. He feels, and so do I, that it is absurd to leave his parked in front of our house and take three blocks to get downtown. I do not allow them to go riding and I do not know any other boy that I would give her permission to go with in a car. I feel that it is best to allow young people a little constancy of freedom. My girls have friends who are perfectly nice girls who are similarly restricted, who contrive in many ways to deceive their parents which I think is a terrible thing. My husband has informed me that he has found, according to the law, that he is at the head of the house and that he enforces obedience, thinking as our ideas are different that I must give aside—that if his daughter disobey or deceive him he will take them into the juvenile court.

I am confident that you can enlighten me. Can I take the child into court?

Yours very truly,

FRANCES M'DONALD

No. 13. One Spade. This type of hand is one that foretells the subject of your discussion. At first the b. was generally disapproved; but it was found to be so valuable as a lead-director and also as a help for partner's declaration that the Ace-Queen-Jack combination is now considered to be as valuable as, if not more valuable than, Ace-King. Any five-card Ace-Queen-Jack suit, regardless of whether it be Major or Minor, should be bid by a Dealer.

No. 16. One Spade. With this hand the Ace-Queen suit should be bid. A King and Queen, even though different suits, possess the requisite strength to warrant an opening bid.

HEAVY VOTE IS CAST IN FREE STATE FIGHT

Government Candidates for Parliament Are Hopeful; Begin Count Today.

VALERA IS LEADING FOE

Dublin, Irish Free State, Sept. 15 (A.P.)—The slogan for polling day in the Irish Free State was "vote, vote, vote, no matter for whom," and reports from returning officers at many places tonight indicate a fairly heavy poll, which it is considered should favor the government's chances.

The count today was for members of the Dail Eireann. The chief parties concerned are the government party, headed by President William T. Cosgrave, and the Fianna Fail, of which Eamon de Valera is the leader.

The fact that there were 300 fewer candidates than in the last general election and that three of the smaller political parties were eliminated from the contest simplified to a great extent the task of recording preferences under the system of proportional voting, which generally bothers the less well-instructed among the electors.

The polling booths remained open until 9 o'clock this evening, and counting has gone, but the government candidates are quite hopeful. Some of the first preferences may be known by tomorrow night or Saturday, but the general results not until next week.

Paris Women Buying Their Tan in Bottles

Paris, Sept. 15 (A.P.)—A tan which can be put on and taken off at will is being sold by one big dressmaking house to clients who wish to have that "summer-girl" look without paying the price of burned skins.

Mannequins who modeled the winter collection at this house under the sun-burn lotion with such good effect that even the experts were fooled into thinking the girls—whose summer had been spent at hard work in the salesrooms—were straight from Deauville, Paris Plage, Le Touquet and the places where the French sun shines most expensively.

FORD RUBBER "WAR" SEEN BY THE BRITISH

Dramatic Move Portrayed in His Purchase of Land in Brazil.

London, Sept. 15 (A.P.)—The report published in the United States that Henry Ford has purchased more than 1,000,000 acres of land in Para, Brazil, for rubber growing is given prominent display on the first page of the Evening News, which carries it under a seven column head.

The newspaper publishes its story under the following heads: "Mr. Ford's $8,000,000 rubber war move," "United States dream of rubber empire," and "Mr. Ford enters the war in dramatic form."

The Evening News dispatch from New York begins thus: "Into the world rubber war today enters Henry Ford, reputed to be the world's richest man and certainly so rich that he can have no idea what he's worth."

The London rubber market, which has been quiescent for many months, was not appreciably affected by the report that Mr. Ford may extend his land holdings in Para to 2,000,000 acres.

The production of raw rubber has been exceeding the demand and the 66,000 tons of stocks in London are more than double those of last year. The present price of 16 pence (32 cents) a pound is low because of heavy production on Dutch plantations which do not participate in the British scheme under which rubber production is restricted.

CHURCH PUBLICISTS TO MEET IN CHICAGO

Nationally Known Experts Will Address Meeting at End of October.

Chicago, Sept. 15 (A.P.)—The annual conference on church publicity, sponsored for the last eight years by the Chicago Church Federation, will be held October 31. Purely a local affair at its inception, the gathering has now grown to be one of national scope.

"Effective Church Publicity" will be the subject of the morning session. Many nationally known specialists in the field of church publicity will attend. Dr. G. W. Hobart Hobart, executive secretary of the National Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church, and Dr. Roy L. Smith of the Simpson Methodist Episcopal Church of Minneapolis, will be among the speakers.

Dr. Hobart will talk on "The Evangel of Printers Ink." Dr. J. T. Brabner Smith, chairman of the commission on publicity on the Chicago Church

Federation, will preside at the morning session.

The afternoon will be devoted to general discussion of the subject, "Religion of the Magazine Versus the Pulpit."

Plenty of sleep. Plenty of exercise. Plenty of fresh air. Above all—the right foods.

Milk, green vegetables, bread—how carefully she selects these three!

COTTON MEN PROTEST
U. S. PRICE PREDICTIONS

Agriculture Department Is Said to Have Driven Price Down $6.

CHIEFS HERE TO CONFER

New Orleans, Sept. 15 (A.P.)—A vigorous protest against the expression of the Government of opinion made to the members of the congressional delegation from Louisiana today by the board of directors of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange.

The telegram was sent following a special call yesterday. The sudden drop in cotton prices of 40¢ a bale, as a result of a report attributing to the Department of Agriculture an opinion that cotton prices will decline within the next few months, has been deplored by the cotton interests. "We have no objection to the Government's statement of facts and conditions in the trade, leaving the trade to determine the value of same, but we must vigorously protest against any pronouncements which may be made by the Government," said one of the leaders of cotton.

"We are confident that it is not the intent of Congress to authorize any department of the Government to interfere with the market," said Secretary Jardine. "The present situation is a result of the present policy of the Government." Meantime, Southern congressmen were flooding the office of the bureau with objections to crop price forecasts. A prediction made in a statement released yesterday that "should the present estimate of production be realized, and past relationships between supply and price prevail, it is likely that prices would fall to 40¢ a bale." It was almost identical with a cotton price review published a month ago, he said, adding that if carried by the press it is entirely possible it would not have caused the furor.

Baltimore & Carolina Steamship Co. claimed it would form a constant danger to navigation.

S. L. Thompson, manager of the group, said that the bridge would interfere with either power boats or sailing vessels.

Plans for the bridge have been approved by the Maryland legislature and Congress, and are awaiting final approval by the War Department.

(Associated Press)
Bombered with protests from the South and elsewhere, the government's opinion on the future price of cotton was upheld today on the opening of the bridge across the Chesapeake Bay. A letter from the Southern Transportation Co. protested the bridge would interfere with marine traffic on the bay during the winter.

Another communication from the public utility company in Washington, to its absence J. C. Marquitt, director of public works, buffered the group with a decision that the association of limited circumstances intended mainly for economic and field agents would interfere with neither power boats or sailing vessels.

It was a formal protest from Lloyd S. Tracy, chief of the bureau, who was absent from his office yesterday.

In their absence J. C. Marquitt, director of public works, buffered the group with a decision that the association of limited circumstances intended mainly for economic and field agents would interfere with neither power boats or sailing vessels.

Borotra Bows Scribes Given To Tilden in Access to Workout 4 Sets

Johnston Winner Over Brugnon, Also Gaining Semifinals.

Hennessey Beaten by Hunter; Lacoste Downs Alonso.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 15 (A.P.)—Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon, two of the great French tennis teams which won the Davis Cup, were cast out of the national turf court championship tournament today by William T. Tilden and William M. Johnston, beaten but unbowed veterans of the United States cup defense team.

Tilden and Johnston needed only four sets to win from the French today. "Big Bill," defeating Borotra, most spectacular of the invaders, by 6-1, 3-6, 6-1, 6-1, and "Little Bill" coming from behind to down Brugnon, 3-6, 6-2, 6-4, 6-4.

As Henry Cochet was beaten in his semi-final style yesterday by Tom Hennessey, of Indianapolis, only one of four French entries now remains in the running for the championship.

Playing marvelous tennis to out-study his opponents, the lone French survivor, René Lacoste, who won the title last year, continued his onward climb toward improbable finals meeting with Tilden by defeating Manuel Alonso, of Philadelphia, fiery Spaniard, 6-8, 6-4, 6-1.

As Francis T. Hunter, United States Davis Cup captain, played the fourth to reach the semifinals, that round was filled by three Americans and a single Frenchman instead of the three French and one American who reached the brackets a year ago.

Hunter's victory was achieved in five hard-fought sets over Hennessey, 6-4, 5-7, 6-0, 6-3, 6-4. Still feeling the effect of his arduous battle the day before, the slim young Hoosier lacked the stamina for a closing effort like that which beat Cochet, and the stocky Welshman had him down by superior staying power.

In the 1926 tournament it was Borotra who eliminated Vincent Richards and fought it out with Lacoste in the final round after Tilden had been put out by Cochet, so the victory today was passing sweet for the tanky Philadelphian.

Fighting hard from the first, Tilden swept the opening set at 6-1 on the wings of five service aces and a series of dazzling drives and volleys.

A spirited net attack by the "Boundless" won him the second set and the third, the two battled on even terms until the sixteen game. Then in the offensive zone, Tilden carried his service in a hard-fought game which was often at set-point against him, cracked Borotra's service and swept his own at love for the set. It was the crucial one and in the fourth the Tilden of old ruled the Turk, sleeves tucked in, set arm straight, swift lightnings to the temples in the corners.

Although he lapsed sadly in the second set, Tilden outscored his opponent in the match by 159 points to 133.

1 of 6 Referees Will Be Appointed at Ringside.

Lincoln Fields, Crete, Ill., Sept. 15 (A.P.)—In the cool of the evening and to the accompaniment of booming flashlights, Jack Dempsey beat the first time within the ring, the former world's heavyweight champion sped through six rounds of glove work, knocking out one of his opponents.

Dempsey looked healthy and formidable, but did not cut loose with all he had except a few. Wherry Allen, 165-pounder from Boston, who sent him sprawling to the floor, Dempsey lost only one round of the six tonight. That was to Big Boy Peterson, New Orleans heavyweight.

He permitted Peterson to throw gloves at him for a full minute before fighting back.

Dempsey's first opponent was Dave Shadie. Then he took on Peterson, whom Allen followed with Allentown Joe Gans, Roy Williams and Bennie Krueger in the order named. G. H. Johnston, beaten but unbowed veterans of the United States cup defense team.

He permitted Peterson to throw gloves at him for a full minute before fighting back.

Dempsey's first opponent was Dave Shadie. Then he took on Peterson, whom Allen followed with Allentown Joe Gans, Roy Williams and Bennie Krueger in the order named. G. H. Johnston, beaten but unbowed veterans of the United States cup defense team.

Tilden and Johnston needed only four sets to win from the French today. "Big Bill," defeating Borotra, most spectacular of the invaders, by 6-1, 3-6, 6-1, 6-1, and "Little Bill" coming from behind to down Brugnon, 3-6, 6-2, 6-4, 6-4.

As Henry Cochet was beaten in his semi-final style yesterday by Tom Hennessey, of Indianapolis, only one of four French entries now remains in the running for the championship.

Playing marvelous tennis to out-study his opponents, the lone French survivor, René Lacoste, who won the title last year, continued his onward climb toward improbable finals meeting with Tilden by defeating Manuel Alonso, of Philadelphia, fiery Spaniard, 6-8, 6-4, 6-1.

FAVORITES SCORE IN LAST 3 RACES AT MARLBORO

Prodigal Sets Fast Pace in Feature

Gov. Ritchie and Banner Crowd See Spill Mar Second Event.

Subtle, Meridian Hill and Barb Wire Win at Odds-on.

FORM players at the Marlboro Fair races yesterday were jolted successively until the last three races, when the favorites managed to get down to the finish in front of the field. A hand-to-hand crowd, which included Gov. Ritchie of Maryland, heated the heat to witness the program. Subtle, in the fifth; Meridian Hill, in the sixth, and Barb Wire, in the seventh, won at odds-on prices.

The crowd was given a real thrill at the fifth race, when a race, a 5½-furlong sprint, when a jam occurred which toppled A. Bulcroft, Jr., from the back of Maybar, but the lad escaped with only minor bruises.

After trailing the field in the early stages, Subtle's Zonite, under a vigorous ride by Tommy Nolan through the stretch, was along in time to trim Guy Bedwell's Sarko, with C. Bide's Copey Boy taking the show money.

Longsht players came into their own in the third, a 5½-furlong sprint, when the H. E. Brown Stock Farm's Juddburgh Abbey, paying $34.30 for the usual investment, won by a nose from C. Whittington's Alley Oop. Third money went to C. Bide's Christmas Rock Light.

Muskalonge, the favorite, refused to break, and after trailing the field in the early stages closed with a rush to be fourth.

J. St. L. Weller put a good thing in the seven-furlong sprint of the fourth race looked upon as the day's feature when Prodigal (the old gelded son of Wildair-Safe Home, broke on top and under D. Emery's urging made every post a winning one.

The horse opened at 5½ to 1, but an available of money, which the post time made the gelding go postward as a favorite in Jimmy Dews iron men.

Starter Weller sent the field of seven away in perfect alignment, but Emery rushed Prodigal on top in short order and from then on merely coaxed to be safely home ahead of C. M. Feltner's Going Home, with V. P. Noyes' Little Papoose third.

Jockey D. Emery, leading winning rider around the half-milers this fall, made it two consecutive victories today when he kicked home J. B. Key's Subtle ahead of Tommy Quinlan's Kensington Lad in the 7-furlong sprint of the fifth race.

Emery rode Subtle on top and all the way. The 5-year-old daughter of Huon-Nobie was only coasting at the end.

KELLERMAN WINS BANNOCKBURN MEDAL WITH .70

Youth Breaks Record for Course

Standifer Shoots 72 for Second; Match Play Today.

Final Round Booked in Columbia Junior Tournament.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.
KARL F. KELLERMAN, JR., of the Columbia Club and runner-up in the District junior championship for five successive years, yesterday won the qualification prize in the Bannockburn Guy C. G. invitation tournament and incidentally broke the record of the Bannockburn course by three strokes when he turned in a card of 70, one stroke over par for the eighteen holes. Guy M. Standifer, also a member of the Columbia Club, was second with a score of 72.

Kellerman had a hole-in-one and home in 13. On the next hole he holed a 6-inch putt for a birdie 3, but on the second hole he took three putts for a 6, one over par. Then, by a fine recovery shot out of the woods and a 15-foot putt, he scored a birdie 3 on the fourth hole but three putts on the fifth green and the same mishap

FEDERAL RESERVE LOANS AND INVESTMENTS GAIN

$800,000,000 Increase to $32,967,000,000 Noted for Second Quarter.

MARKET PRICES ARE FIRM

By F. W. PATTERSON.

Total loans and investments of all member banks of the Federal Reserve System increased by more than $800,000,000 during the second quarter of the year, and on June 30 stood at $32,967,000,000, the Federal Reserve Board announced yesterday.

Loans, which had declined during the first quarter of the year, increased during the succeeding three months by about $600,000,000, and the banks' equity holdings, which had shown considerable increase during the first quarter of the year, showed a further increase of nearly $200,000,000 between the end of March and the end of June.

Growth in loans and investments was accompanied by marked increase in deposits, net demand deposits increasing by nearly $700,000,000, and time deposits by about $400,000,000.

The volume of member bank borrowings from the banks showed a slight decrease for the quarter.

Loans and investments of all member banks on June 30 were approximately $1,600,000,000 larger than a year ago. This represented a growth during the year of about $600,000,000 in loans and $700,000,000 in investments.

Growth in loans and investments of member banks was not accompanied by marked increase in demand and time deposits, amounting to more than $400,000,000 for the year, was caused chiefly by banks in leading cities, for the most part in New York and Cleveland districts. Time deposits continued to account for the largest share of the growth for the year, amounting to about $1,600,000,000. Of this amount nearly $600,000,000 was in the deposits of banks in leading cities and about $400,000,000 in the deposits of banks in small cities. Increases at both classes of banks were larger in the four Eastern districts and the San Francisco district.

Activity in Volume Falls Off.

Activity in volume of turnover on the Washington Stock Exchange yesterday fell off when compared with the previous day's activity, but there was no easing in the price tone, all shares traded in holding firm or making fractional gains.

Unlike the day before, there was no activity in the bank shares, the only one of the list to move being Continentar, which gained an advance of one-half point to 120% on an odd lot sale reached another peak for 1927.

Among the public utilities Washington Gas Light continued upward and opening with an overnight gain of one-eighth, at 77%, closed at 77%. Washington Water Power also moved up fractionally to 102%, a new high for the year, while the 6 per cent preferred sold in a small lot at 101%. Federal-American Co. common changed hands at 104, while National Mortgage & Investment preferred sold to the extent of 100 shares at 71%.

Bond trading was more active than for several days with sales recorded in Barber & Ross, Inc., 6½% at 97; Washington Railway & Electric 4% at 86; Capital City, 6½% at 102; Washington Gas Light 6½ series A at 104% for the $1,000, while the scrip B changed hands at 105 for the $1,000.

Foreigners Eager for Securities.

The interest of European investors in American securities has been rapid rate according to A. C. Beane, senior partner of the New York Stock Exchange firm of Fenner & Beane, who returned yesterday from a trip to Europe. "During my visit to our Paris office," said Mr. Beane, "I found the French investors to be very anxious to purchase our securities because they consider even at present prices the yields on dividends now paid are liberal. The average Frenchman is satisfied with a return of ten per cent if they can combine with that return a reasonable speculative possibility."

"European opinion is that the American stock market is going to be strong, with a rising tendency, for some time to come. They believe that inflation is definitely under way in America and that this will force the stock market to higher levels."

Crislinger Resignation Unexpected.

While Treasury officials had been aware for some time of the desire of D. R. Crislinger, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia, to resign, the news of his resignation, which reached the financial district late in the afternoon, was wholly unexpected.

Mr. Crislinger has a host of friends in the financial institutions of Washington, and it is expected he will appear in hearing that he has to remain here as an executive of a local company.

Purchases Higher Than Year Ago.

The Credit Clearing House reports that purchases were less than last week, but an increase was noted in all sections of the country. Indebtedness is reported heavier in the Western and Southern States, but in the East and middle West there is a reported drop.

Taking the country as a whole, the purchases show a decrease from last week, but not more than half of the corresponding week last year. Indebtedness was less than last week, or the corresponding week last year, while payments were not so good as in either comparative period.

Freight Volume Decreases.

The volume of freight traffic handled by the class 1 railroads in July amounted to 38,382,108,000 net ton miles, the Bureau of Railway Economics announced yesterday. This was a decrease of 3,335,143,000 net ton miles, or 8 per cent under July, 1926, when freight traffic was the greatest for any July on record. All districts reported decreases in freight traffic in July compared with the corresponding month last year.

ARTS BOARD PICKS BATHING POOL SITE FOR M'KINLEY HIGH

Natatorium Is to Be Built at Southwest Edge of the School Grounds.

DRAWINGS FOR ANOTHER M STREET SPAN PASSED

General Plan for the District Building Project Also Is Approved.

The site for the municipal swimming pool to be built on the new McKinley Manual Training school grounds at Second and T streets northeast, was selected and the general plan for the erection of a group of municipal buildings in the area bounded by Third and Sixth streets and Indiana and Pennsylvania avenues northwest, was approved yesterday by the National Fine Arts Commission, which opened a three-day session.

The commission also approved the preliminary plans for a new bridge over Rock Creek at M street northwest, a plan submitted by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission; a recreation center in North Brightwood, and the preliminary plan for an exhibition building of the American government at the Seville, Spain, international exhibition next year.

Designs for battle monuments and memorials to be erected in Europe at Somme-Py, Cantigny and Brest and the approach to the Memorial Chapel at Beauvois Wood in France, were considered.

Commissioners Visit Site.

With Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant III, director of public buildings and public parks; Maj. L. E. Atkins, assistant District engineer commissioner; Municipal Architect Arthur J. Harris and Dr. H. Barrett Learned, of the Board of Education, the arts commission visited the swimming pool site and agreed on the selection.

In compliance with the request of Mr. Harris and the education board, it was agreed to locate the bath house at the southwestern edge of the school grounds and the pool east of the bath house. This was done in order that the vista from First street might be preserved.

At a meeting with the District Commissioners in Commissioner Proctor L. Donaldson's office, the arts group approved the building scheme for the Third-Sixth street Indiana-Pennsylvania area.

The scheme provides for erection of three groups of buildings in the territory. One group will house the police and a second group the police and fire department headquarters. The third group will contain the new District building and administrative departments.

The general details as to the size, design and arrangements of the buildings will be worked out by Mr. Harris in conjunction with the Fine Arts Commission.

Wider Massachusetts Ave. Proposed.

The plan for the M street bridge provides for a span 240 feet long and 60 feet wide, with three archways, one to cover the new Rock Creek and Potomac Parkway. The old M street span was judged unsafe two years ago, because of its narrow foundation. The new bridge will have two roadways separated by a parking.

A proposal to widen Massachusetts avenue northwest, through its entire length and to develop the thoroughfare with center parking and floral beds similar to Maryland avenue northeast, was made by the University Park Citizens Association. This led to lengthy discussion and terminated when the commission agreed to lay the Proposition before the Capital Park and Planning Commission for study.

Plans for the commission's second meeting today call for a joint conference with the National Capital Park and Planning Commission on the bridge building, when a decision on the approach to the Arlington Memorial bridge from the Lincoln Memorial is expected to be made. A model of the approach has been prepared and will be studied by the commissioners.

Parker was taken to Emergency Hospital and was treated for three fractured ribs received when he fell into the water.

Rings and Papers Stolen in Office.

Three rings, valued at $250, valuable papers and a sum of money were reported stolen from the office of Mrs. Elizabeth Ross, 1335 H street northwest, yesterday. The articles were in a handbag lying on a desk in the office.

TAX DELEGATES OF CITY PLAN FISCAL CAMPAIGN

Dr. T. W. Page, Economist, Named Chairman; Colladay Vice Chairman.

PREPARE FOR TORONTO

The eight delegates who will represent the District of Columbia at the annual conference of the national tax delegation in Toronto, Canada, next month, met with Commissioner Sidney P. Taliaferro yesterday in the latter's office to plan to utilize the tax meeting, if possible, in preparation for a drive before Congress this winter for revision of the tax code selected by the District and Federal governments.

All eight plan to attend the conference, which will be in session the week beginning October 10. Commissioner Taliaferro plans to reach Toronto October 12 and pass the resolution of the week there, not as a delegate, but as an interested observer, helping head up the work of the District delegation.

This work, it is expected, will not involve discussion on the floor of the conference, but will consist largely of individual discussions with committees to compile data useful in hearings before committees of Congress and advising with tax experts on a proper balance of Federal and District contributions to the cost of local government and possibly, on revision, into other aspects of the district tax code.

Dr. Thomas W. Page, economist, was named chairman of the delegation, and Edward F. Colladay, vice chairman. Another meeting will be held Tuesday for further discussion of plans. The other delegates will be Assessor William P. Daniels, Robert V. Fleming, Joshua Evans, Jr., W. L. Beale, Newbold Noyes and Frank J. Coleman.

In compliance with the request of Mr. Harris and the education board, it was agreed to locate the bath house at the southwestern edge of the school grounds and the pool east of the bath house. This was done in order that the vista from First street might be preserved.
